AN EPOCH-MARKING EVENT.

In the issue of the Scientific American for November 30, is given a very exhaustive and interesting account of the recent experiments at Sandy Hook by the naval department for the purpose of testing relatively the power of the newly perfected projectiles for piercing armor plate. The Gothman, the Maxim and the Dunn shells were tested. The Gothman and the Dunn are from United States inventors, the latter being the invention of Capt. B. W. Dunn, of the U. S. army. The shells were fired at point blank range at a target composed of armor plate of Krupp patents, 11 1/2 inches in thickness, set up against a framework of steel plating which was an exact reproduction of a section of a side of the battleship Iowa, and this was backed by a body of wetted sand extending rearwardly about fifty feet. The results of the experiments were to give the preference to the Dunn projectile, or rather to the loading of Dunnite, although shells of all three of the processes tested pierced the armor and had much effect behind it. The Maximite shells nearly approached in effect the Dunnite. The latter loaded into an ordinary armor-piercing shell and from a twelve-inch gun struck the target towards its left-hand side with a velocity of 2000 foot-seconds, and exploding in the plate, tore out a section which was three feet across in its largest diameter and swept it with its own fragments and the fragments of the backing entirely through the great sand heap behind, finally landing the broken section of the plate which weighed over a ton and a half, some 200 feet to the rear of the target. A vessel armed with these high explosive armor-piercing shells, would have her opponent completely at her mercy. It is no exaggeration to say that the phenomenal success attending the 12-inch projectiles is one of the most sensational and epoch-marking events in the history of modern ordnance. Moreover, the new army explosives are absolutely insensitive to shock; are perfectly safe to handle, and both the chemical composition and the delay-action fuse which is essential to their detonation are secrets which are in safe-keeping of the United States army.

CONSTITUTION FOLLOWS THE FLAG.

The recent decision by the United States supreme court in what is known as the "Fourteen Diamond Rings" case is of great importance, especially so as affecting trade between the Philippines and the United States, since the decision in effect declares the Philippines to be now an integral part of this country. Therefore the imposition of a tariff on any articles brought here from those islands is unconstitutional and unlawful. This decision not only affects the present and future business intercourse between the United States proper and the Philippines, but will necessitate the returning by our government of a very large sum heretofore collected under the tariff regulations. The following extract from dispatches on the subject is very explicit:

"The secretary of the treasury today issued to collectors of customs in the United States a telegraphic order directing them to admit free of duty goods imported from the Philippine islands. Following is the order:

"Discontinue the requirement of entry and collection of duty on merchandise shown by manifest of vessels to be shipped from the Philippines. All free delivery goods in bond. Detain cigars and cigarettes until internal revenue stamps are affixed under circulars 81 and 85. Refunds will be made by certified statements where protests were duly filed."

THE TARIFF.

Senator Morgan of Alabama, one of the ablest and most far-seeing men in the national legislature, predicts that the chief subject of discussion during the session of congress that begins to-day will be the tariff question, because the people are getting very weary of tariff exactions. The Republican leaders know it, and they do not know what course to take to appease popular sentiment and at the same time retain the affection of the big tariff beneficiaries. Something has got to be done, and the Republican doctors are not in harmony as to the remedy.

There are some Republicans, representing constituencies that cannot be longer deluded on this subject, who will favor radical action. This will insure some division in debate, even if the old methods secure practical harmony in the adoption of remedial measures, or, more accurately, in the defeat of remedial measures. The Democrats will probably give Republicans a chance to vote for an income tax and some other effective measures in addition to supporting any Republican schemes that will give any promise of adequate relief.—Tucson Citizen.

SECRETARY HOOD's report says that the no-canteen policy in the army has been no glittering success and he does not believe in it, but he is willing to try it again for another year.

TO STAR IN NEW PLAY.

Grace George Will Have Leading Part in Romantic Southern Drama.

Grace George, who is to appear as a star at a New York theater in a play called "Under Southern Skies," is by no means a stranger to the theater-going public. She scored a success last year in "Her Majesty" which warranted many in believing she had a great future as an ingenue of the Maude Adams type.

After two years' instruction under Sargent Miss George made her first public appearance as Nancy, the in-grace role in "The New Boy." In succession she filled parts in "The Girl Left Behind Me," "Charley's Aunt" and "The Wandering Minstrel."

In private life she is the wife of William A. Brady, the well known theatrical manager, whom she married shortly before the withdrawal of "The Turtle." Her stage methods are natural and realistic, while personally she is very attractive.
